

OUR CIRCULATION IN RICHMOND AND MADISON COUNTY IS EQUAL TO THE COMBINED CIRCULATION OF ALL OTHER COUNTY PAPERS

OUR NEIGHBORS.

LEE COUNTY.

Hon. Sam Hurst, of Beattyville, has announced himself as a candidate for circuit judge of the 23rd judicial district on the Republican ticket.

The regular February term of the Lee circuit court opened its regular term at Beattyville last Monday, with Judge Hugh Riddell, of Irvine, on the bench.

JESSAMINE COUNTY.

The fiscal court at Nicholasville verified claims for sheep killed and injured by dogs; 20 farmers filing claims to the amount of 105 animals, valued by appraisers at $704.50. This sum was ordered to be verified to the Auditor for payment.

LINCOLN COUNTY.

Circuit Court began in Stanford last week, with Judge Charles Hardin on the bench.

Prominent business men of Lincoln county say that that county has an increased acreage of wheat this year, and that the farmers will profit by the soaring of wheat, which has reached almost a prohibitive price.

FAYETTE COUNTY.

Lexington's automobile show will begin Monday, Feb. 22, and last four days. The show will be held in the Cheapside Tabernacle.

R. F. Holden, of Lexington, was adjudged insane before the county judge in that city last week. He is 63 years old and it is said that worry over tobacco conditions was the chief cause of the trouble.

Forty-nine State University students were automatically suspended from the institution last week as the result of their falling behind in half of their work. The examinations ended two weeks ago, and as fast as the reports came in, those who were delinquent in 50 per cent of their studies were suspended.

CLARK COUNTY.

Deputy Sheriff Clay Hodgkin, of Winchester, was in Richmond last Wednesday, where he was summoned to testify in circuit court.

A petition, headed by practically all of the city and county officials, was started in Winchester last week asking that the Governor pardon Fletcher Dean, who was convicted as one of the arch conspirators in the plot to kill Ed Callahan, ex-sheriff of Breathitt county. Many prominent citizens have volunteered to sign the petition.

The Democratic city committee of Winchester met in that city last week and set Tuesday, March 15, as the date for holding the city primary.

On Feb. 10th Dr. J. L. Clark, president of Kentucky Wesleyan College, at Winchester, who was recently elected president of the College Association of Kentucky, celebrated his birthday. Dr. Clark spent his college days as a student of Central University, Danville, and at Vanderbilt University, at Nashville.

BOYLE COUNTY.

Miss Mary Rodas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Rodas, of Danville, was last week elected to be Queen at the June Carnival at Central University.

Policemen Moore and Dunn, of Danville, discovered a negro man in the store of John Magee, in that city, at 2 o'clock Saturday morning. They called to the intruder to throw up his hands and he answered with a shot; the policeman returned the fire and killed him. He proved to be Eugene Harding, who had recently been released from the Reform School for entering the same store.

Jackson, county of Breathitt, has made arrangements to pave the leading business streets of that town. If Danville does not hurry up, Jackson will forge ahead of her.—Danville Advocate.

The chief of police of Danville has raised sufficient money to purchase a pair of trained bloodhounds. Many leading business men of the city contributed to their purchase. So many burglaries have been committed there that it is thought the dogs may prove of much use.

BOURBON COUNTY.

Larry Mitchell has filed suit in the Bourbon circuit court against the L. & A. railroad for $55,000 on account of injuries received in a wreck in the company yards at Paris.

GARRARD COUNTY.

Miss Pearl Pettis and Mr. Jas. Smith, prominent young people of Lanesburg, surprised their friends by motoring to Danville, last Wednesday where they were married.

Miss Annie Perkins and Archie Dean, both of Garrard, were married last week, surprising many friends.

L. Kelly & Son, of Garrard, sold a lot of lugs at 65c per pound and a lot of 220 pounds at an average of 36.71c. The sale took place in the Planter's House in Lexington. Another Kelly has grown tobacco for years and for a quarter of a century been regarded as a champion leaf grower of the Burley district.

ESTILL COUNTY.

At Park, a negro, was convicted in Estill county court last week on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. He was fined $50 and given a jail sentence of ten days. The judgment also prohibits him for two years.

W. Riddell, living near Irvine, said that he has since August 1 shipped a dozen eggs and over 1,500 chickens, and Mrs. John W. Miller, of West, are the proud parents of a boy.

WAR SUED BY REVENUE AGENT

Foreign Corporations Are Liable To Laws in Kentucky on the Ratio of Business Done Here.

(Special Frankfort Correspondence.)

Frankfort.—Foreign corporations are liable to taxes in Kentucky on the ratio of their business done in this state, bears to their total authorized capital stock. In the case of the American Tobacco Co. against the Commonwealth, a revenue agent's suit, the Court of Appeals affirmed the Frankfort Circuit Court in its judgment, requiring the company to pay $1,648.85 with interest from February 1, 1907; $1,232.43 with interest from February 1, 1908; $1,337.40 with interest from February 1, 1909, and $1,337.40 with interest from February 1, 1910, but it reversed the Circuit Court in the matter of allowing Revenue Agent Earl Huntman 20 per cent penalties on the amount. The suit was filed by Attorney Leslie Morris, of Frankfort, for the revenue agent. The State Board of Valuation and Assessment had assessed the company Kentucky's proportion of its paid up capital stock of $118,931,500, instead of its authorized capital of $180,000,000. This suit was to collect the tax of 30 cents on the $1,000 of the difference.

Painting of Washington Renovated.

The immense picture of George Washington, which adorns the walls of the House of Representatives, in the old Capitol, has been received by the Kentucky State Historical Society from the artist, Farina, in Philadelphia, who restored it. It will be unveiled February 22 by the society. H. V. McClellan, of Lexington, is making a search of old records to ascertain when and where the statue got the picture, but so far without avail. It is one of the five copies made of Gilbert Stuart's portrait of Washington, taken from life, and has been in possession of the State of Kentucky for about a century. When it was taken down from the old Capitol it was in such a state of disrepair that few believed it could be restored. It was torn, moldy and scaled off. The paint was so dim that a label, by which Washington was represented, could not be discerned, but by the process of restoration in the original tints the whole picture was brought out as it was originally.

January Sales of 1914 Tobacco Crop.

The average price brought by the 1914 crop of tobacco in Kentucky during January, when $1,874,813 pounds were sold, according to reports made to Commissioner Newman, was $7.39. The 64,921,029 pounds of burley sold for growers averaged $7.41. Unfiled dark tobacco of the 1914 crop, of which 1,640,170 pounds were sold for growers at $5.75. Total sales of fired dark tobacco for growers, 1914 crop, were $61,775 pounds at $6.14. Green River tobacco sold for growers, 1914 crop, totaled $3,865,175 pounds at $5.98. One-sucker tobacco sold for growers, 1914 crop, brought $5.06 for 2,449,345 pounds.

Body Blow to Drug Traffic.

Illicit drug traffic in Kentucky will be dealt a body blow with the application of the new Federal statute regulating the handling of prohibitive drugs, which becomes effective March 1. This is the opinion of those who have for the past several years, have been engaged in a campaign to reduce the traffic throughout the state. It is pointed out that illicit practices on the part of individual users, druggists, physicians, turfmen and others, which have persisted despite the state narcotic law, will now be reduced to the minimum, if not entirely eliminated, through the instrumentality of this new law.

Speakers for Institute at Henderson.

While the program for the state Farmers' Institute, at Henderson, February 23, 24, and 25, is not arranged, a list of the speakers was made public here. The Institute will be welcomed by L. Powell Taylor, to whose speech former Senator H. M. Froman, of Ghent, member of the state board of agriculture, will respond. M. D. Hughes, of Bowling Green, district farm demonstrator for the government; Bradford Knapp, of Washington, head of the agricultural demonstration department, and Commissioner J. W. Newman are on the program for that day.

Kentucky Twelfth in List of States.

Kentucky stands twelfth in the list of nineteen states infected by the foot and mouth disease in the number of head of live stock killed by Federal inspectors. Illinois leads with a total of 36,715. In New York 17,262 were killed and in Ohio 10,564. The number killed in Kentucky was 1,127, according to a bulletin issued by the Federal Bureau of Animal Industry. Their value was $40,000. In addition, $2,000 expenses were incurred. Commissioner Newman said he has issued a requisition for the state's half.

born on Monday.

S. M. Tipton has announced himself a candidate for circuit court clerk of Estill county, subject to the action of the Republican party.

Harry B. Wilson, chief deputy in the county clerk's office at Irvine, was in Lexington today, having come here with a handsome black horse, which he sold to W. R. Milward for $200 for use in his bearing, the horse matching another one being used for that purpose.—Lexington Leader.

Foot Disease Cost $40,000.

No change has been reported to Commissioner of Agriculture Newman in the situation of the foot and mouth disease among the cattle in this state. Every possible means to prevent the spread of the disease is being taken by the Department of Agriculture. The Commissioner said: "The last outbreak in Kentucky has been confined to the stock yards and the slaughtering pens of the cities, and the government refuses to pay for any animals destroyed, except those upon the farms, holding that the butcher or the dealer purchases at his own risk, knowing the danger of getting diseased animals when bought from any public market place. The total value of animals destroyed in Kentucky up to the present time is $40,000, and the expense of burial and disinfection of premises amounts to approximately the sum of $2,000. The Federal Government has paid its one-half of the value of the animals destroyed and also its one-half of the expenses of destruction and disinfection." Commissioner Newman has drawn a voucher from the funds appropriated for the Department of Agriculture for the sheriff's office for the expenses of destruction and disinfection, which will be paid at once if approved by the governor and warrant is issued by the auditor. The 1916 legislature of Kentucky will be called upon to provide funds for reimbursing the owners, who have been compelled to lose their animals, for the state's one-half of their value.

Hogs Were Shipped from Kentucky.

A shipment of eighty-eight hogs was received at Covington railroad yards from Fleming county, Kentucky, and reshipped from there to Baltimore. At Baltimore the foot and mouth disease developed. State Veterinarian S. F. Musselman said he believes the hogs were infected either in the Covington yards or in the cars, probably the latter. Hereafter the cleansing and disinfecting of cars after every shipment will be required.

Pays Teachers $562,662.73.

Checks aggregating $562,662.73 have been mailed by State Treasurer Rhea to the city and county school teachers for the month of January. The amount $104,170.22 goes to the city school teachers and $548,512.51 to the rural school teachers.

MOTHERS' PENSION IN KENTUCKY

Judge Henry Neil in Louisville Working on Plan to Interest People.

Louisville, Ky.—Judge Henry Neil, father of the Mothers' Pension plan which has already been adopted in sixteen states, is to undertake to interest Kentucky in the adoption of the same plan. Judge Neil has made a study of the subject and the care of the children of the poor and has reached the conclusion that the institutional idea of caring for children by the state because the parents are too poor, is a failure. Judge Neil is now in Louisville arranging for a Mothers' Pension convention to be held in that city within the next few weeks, the date having not yet been set.

BUSINESS MEN RAISE FUNDS

To Complete Model Highway To Lincoln Farm—State Will Give Aid.

Hodgenville, Ky.—At a special meeting of the Hodgenville Business Men's club the citizens and farmers guaranteed $800 for building of the road from Hodgenville to Lincoln farm, which is the amount the county will be asked to duplicate. This with the state aid will reach $3,200. A committee is soliciting subscriptions to build the two miles between Hodgenville and Elizabethtown which will require not more than $2,000, connecting the Lincoln farm with the Jackson Way via Elizabethtown.

TIMES WANTS HEAVY DAMAGES.

Louisville, Ky.—Damages in the sum of $50,000 and a perpetual injunction are sought by the Louisville Times Co. in a petition filed in circuit court here against C. W. Todd & Co., a foreign corporation, and Clark Walter, local representative of the company. It is alleged in the petition that the defendants have had printed and circulated throughout Louisville, Kentucky and other states thousands of sheets purporting to be the first page of the 6 o'clock edition of The Times of January 20, 1915, and that a facsimile of the head line or title of The Times, Vol. LXII, No. 68, is used to indicate that it is a true copy of The Times of that date and issue.

BLOODHOUNDS FOR OFFICERS.

Danville, Ky.—Citizens of Danville by popular subscription have raised a fund with which to purchase a pair of bloodhounds to be used in running down criminals. The hounds will be donated to the city and county officials for use.

ELECTRIC LIGHT AND ICE PLANT.

Winchester, Ky.—A franchise was awarded to John W. Walker, of Corbin, to install an electric light and ice manufacturing plant at Irvine. Local capitalists were contending bidders for the franchise. Since the completion of the Winchester-Irvine line of the L. & N. railroad, which terminates at Irvine, the capital of Estill county has taken on a big boom. Although but 30 miles from this city, until this road was completed it took a day to go to Irvine.

Mrs. E. J. Wallace celebrated her 83th

BERLIN MAY CITE
GREAT BRITAIN'S
"STARVE" ORDERGermany's Reply to U. S. Note
Expected to Ask Embargo Be Lifted.

NOTE PRESENTED BY GERARD

American Ambassador Confers With Foreign Minister Gottlieb Von Jagow Nearly an Hour on Subject of Communication.

Berlin, Feb. 15 (via London).—James W. Gerard, the American ambassador, called on Gottlieb von Jagow, the German foreign secretary, and presented him the American government's note concerning the German sea war zone proclamation.

The delivery of the note was followed by a conference between Mr. Gerard and the foreign minister which lasted for three-quarters of an hour. Judging from the length of the ambassador's stay at the foreign office the communication evidently was considered of importance.

Berlin Paper Comments.

The Berlin newspapers print a dispatch from London stating that the American note to Germany concerning the non-traffic of the sea war zone contains a clear intimation that an attack on any ship carrying the American flag without a previous inquiry as to its right to fly the flag would lead to complications of a most serious character. The Kreuz Zeitung commenting on this says:

"This note would amount to a breach of neutrality unless America informed Great Britain that complications of a most serious character would result from the misuse of the American flag."

Want British Embargo Lifted.

If the views repeatedly expressed in responsible quarters may be taken as a criterion the German reply to Washington probably will point out that the German measure in making the seas around Great Britain a war zone is a fully justified answer to the British attempt to starve out the German nation, "women and children as well as soldiers."

It is believed also that the note will suggest that if the United States desires a mitigation of Germany's naval campaign it will have to lift its embargo on foodstuffs bound for Germany, which, in the German interpretation of international law, is entirely illegal and unjustified.

It will be added, it is believed, that if Great Britain persists in its embargo the campaign against hostile merchantmen will go forward with full severity.

English Views on Note.

London, Feb. 15.—English newspapers see no cause for alarm in the recent note of the United States respecting the use of the American flag and the seizure of cargoes. They declare that no food must be allowed to reach Germany and that any confiscated from ships by Great Britain will be amply paid for.

"It is common knowledge that but for the magnificent discriminating contributions by the United States the great part of the Belgian population would actually have starved to death," says the Globe. "No food or raw material must reach Germany from the outside, so far as we can prevent it. The Wilhelmiana is a test case. To allow the cargo to go through would be not merely a deplorable exhibition of weakness, but a plain betrayal of all which we allies are fighting for." Whether we regard the Wilhelmiana's action as a trap to entrap us with the United States or merely due to the stress of conditions, we can very well afford to take the cargo over on fairly generous terms. If that is done no friendly neutral country can have cause to complain."

GET BRITISH MERCHANT SHIPS

German Submarines Continue Work of Destroying Enemy's Freight-Carrying Vessels.

London, Feb. 15.—German submarines are believed to be active again in destroying British commercial ships. The new cargo steamer Torquay was towed into Scarborough harbor in a sinking condition. She was either torpedoed or struck a mine eight miles east of that port. One man was killed and two injured. Nothing has been heard of the British steamers Oriole and London Trader since January 30. It seems certain that both of these vessels were sunk by a German submarine.

CANADIANS AT THE FRONT

Montreal, Que., Feb. 15.—The Canadian expeditionary force has arrived safely in France, according to a cable to the Gazette. The movement of the Canadian troops commenced ten days ago. The Highland division of the Canadians arrived in France last Sunday.

TERROR STRICKEN

MYSTERIOUS AEROPLANES HEAD TOWARD OTTAWA—WARN-ING SENT BY PREMIER.All Lights of Canadian Capital Were Extinguished—First Time Royal
Mint Went Dark.

Western Newspaper Union News Service.
Ottawa, Ontario.—Premier Sir Robert Borden received a telegram from Brockville stating that three aeroplanes were seen flying over that place, heading in the direction of Ottawa. Brockville is about 60 miles due south of Ottawa. The military authorities were at once informed and directed to take what precautions they could. All lights were ordered extinguished. The Brockville message came from the Chief of Police of that town, and stated that three or four aeroplanes had been observed to cross the St. Lawrence river from a point in New York State near Morrisstown, and after dropping light-balls had headed north in the direction of Ottawa. The authorities had the street lights of Ottawa turned out and at the same time the lights on the Parliament Building obscured by the drawing of window blinds. Lights at Rideau Hall, the residence of the Governor General, were also turned out. The Duke of Connaught, the Governor General of Canada, is on an official trip to Winnipeg to inspect the garrison troops, but the Duchess and the Princess Patricia are at home. For the first night in its history the Royal Mint also was in darkness. Here the gold of the Dominion is minted.

WATCHFUL WAITING POLICY.

Washington.—A tense attitude of expectancy is apparent on the part of official Washington over the character of the reply of Germany to the recent notes of this government respecting the naval war zone around Great Britain and France and the interference with the diplomatic duties of Henry Van Dyke, the American Minister to Holland, in the little principality of Luxembourg. There appears to be a disposition on the part of many public men to anticipate that the answer from Berlin to these communications will not be wholly satisfactory.

Paid In Advance.

We intend to place our paper on a strictly "paid-in-advance" basis. In these hard times, we do not want to appear unreasonable and when we tell you the facts, we think you will find us right in our conclusion.

1st. Everything we buy must be paid for in cash or in 30 days, which is the same as cash.

2nd. It takes a large amount of money to run this business one month.

3rd. Everything in our line has advanced in price fully 50 per cent., so that at the price of $1.00 per year, we lose money on a subscription. Therefore, the loss of a subscription is more than a dollar thrown away.

4th. The law does not permit us to carry non-paying subscribers indefinitely.

5th. To mail out notices costs about 6 cents the letter. Not over three or four persons out of a hundred pay any attention to our request for payment.

6th. Finally, in order to collect some of our best accounts, we must place them in the hands of a professional collector, which costs us about 25 cents on the dollar.

7th. The loss of subscriptions and the cost of collections make a subscription net us less than 50 cents, bringing on our shoulders a loss of over 50 cents for each subscriber.

8th. We are willing to accommodate the public, but we refuse emphatically to longer stand for this loss.

9th. Subscriptions to this paper must be paid in advance.

STOCK AND FARM

The outlook for 1915 continues to look good for poultrymen.

S. L. Rich, of Lancaster, sold a team of mules to James Sutton for $235.

John Goggin, of Hubble, sold a pair of 7-year-old mare mules to S. Boone Sanders, of Hodgeville, for $325.

W. B. Burton, of Lancaster, bought a good war mule from Jessa Gully for $125.

Geo. W. Phelps sold to H. C. Moody a 2-year-old filly, by Peter Giltner, for $400.

Harry Goldman & Son, Middleton, Ind., sold 55 head of Durocs last month at an average of $61.27.

The exports of 52 flour mills around Kansas City, Mo., were 217,000 barrels in 1914, compared with 73,000 barrels in 1913.

Irving La Rue, of Henderson county, purchased a 306-acre farm near Anthony for $30,000.

L. B. Murphy sold his 57 1/2 acre farm near Newton, Scott county, to C. T. Skinner at $200 per acre.

G. W. Searcy & Son, of Woodford county, sold 5,350 pounds of tobacco from 3 acres for $715.

B. G. Fox sold for Fox & Farris the following mules: A pair of 4-year-olds mules to Wm. Cook, of Lancaster, for $325; a pair of 4-year-olds to C. H. Wood for $350; 1 mule to Vernon Lear for $650, and a pair of 4-year-olds for $300.

All of these mules were sold for farm purposes.—Danville Advocate.

During the past month J. C. Caldwell, of Boyle county, has shipped 441 head of export cattle and received $8.40 per hundred for all but 145, which went at $8.00.

According to the report of the joint Congressional Committee on Federal Aid to Good Roads, the annual expenditures for road improvement in the United States amount to about $201,000,000.

Warring European nations have purchased and exported more than 75,000 horses from the United States, according to G. A. Bell, of the Bureau of Animal Industry, in the Agricultural Outlook, published in Washington.

In this paper appears the announcement of Cyrus T. Stone as a candidate for assessor of Madison county. Mr. Stone was born and reared and has spent all his life in Madison county, and is too well known to need comment at our hands. His ancestry were Madison county people of prominence and are well remembered by the elder citizens of the county. Mr. Stone has always been a consistent Democrat, a firm believer in its principles and a follower of its doctrines. He has a large acquaintance in all sections of the county and his followers, among them some of the best men in the county, claim his election over any and all opposition that may in this race develop.

SOME RACE IN SIGHT.

What all hands agree will be one of the warmest and most interesting political fights "pulled off" in the State this year will be that for the Democratic nomination for Circuit Judge in the Twenty-fifth Judicial district, composed of Clark, Madison, Jefferson and Powell counties. Judge W. Rhodes Shackelford, present County Judge of Madison county, has formally entered the race for the circuit bench and the announcement of Judge J. M. Benton, of Winchester, the present Circuit Judge, has also been announced. Both are able jurists and seasoned campaigners and when they meet each other on the hustings the fur is expected to fly. All the other races in the four counties making up the judicial district have been subordinated to the circuit judge's race.—Louisville Times.

A RIP SNORTER!

The Grand Jury report, too long for publication in full in this issue, is one of the most entertaining filed in many years. We will publish it in full in our next issue. It charges—

1st. That nearly all the crimes arise from intoxicants and pistol totting.
2nd. That intoxicating liquors are sold in sight of the Court House and the churches. That the witnesses won't reveal the names of the vendors.
3d. The county jail is in a bad condition, needing plumbing and a more liberal use of soap and water.

4th. "Our highways in the county are in a deplorable condition, caused by the unusually bad weather and the heavy hauling over them while they are soft, and we urge the fiscal court to spend every available dollar on them during the coming season, that Madison county may be abreast of her sister counties in the matter of road-making."
5th. The county poor house is in a very bad condition. The grand jury says: "We further suggest to our citizens who are charitably inclined and who spend much time and worry over the Belgian situation in the East, that they will find a fruitful field near Union for the exercise of the greatest of christian virtues."

CHURCH NOTES.
Rev. J. M. Cornelison, well known here, was painfully injured in a runaway accident last week, but will be able to hold his revival meeting at Tutuila, Oregon, where he is a missionary to the Indians.
Rev. E. B. Barnes and Mr. R. E. Turley attended a men's banquet of the Bible school at Nicholasville on Tuesday night. Mr. Turley was one of the principal speakers.
The men's meeting Sunday night at the First Christian church was largely attended. Rev. Barnes spoke on "The Character of Isaac." Next Sunday evening the subject will be: "The Man Who Went to Seek a City." The men should be there.
The attendance at the First Christian church Sunday School on Sunday, February 14, was 320; offering $30.76.

Correct.
A large class sent in answers to the question "When was William McKinley first elected President, and from what State and city?"
The first correct answer opened was that of Mrs. W. J. Wilson, of Newby, this county. Her answer was: "William McKinley ran against Wm. J. Bryan in 1896 and was elected. He was from Canton, Ohio. Reap, Mrs. W. J. W." Please take notice that to be eligible to answer these questions, your subscriptions must be paid from January 1, 1915, for one year in advance.
2d. Only one award will be given to a contestant during the year.
3. All letters must be plainly marked "To be opened the day of—," which is the day the award is made. Unless it is so marked it goes into the general mail and is opened by the secretary at once, in which event the contestant loses out. For further directions read "To Collect Subscriptions."
We were unable to look after this matter in the last issue and give the result. The question for Tuesday, February 23, is as follows:
Name the Presidents of the United States who have been assassinated while in office and the names of their slayers.
For March 2, name the county officers of Madison county and their salaries.

At The Alhambra Theatre Next Monday.

Never was there such a serial as this! Never such thrills—such suspense, such intense longing for the next installment!

"The Exploits of Elaine" has given a new figure to the screen, the super-criminal, who comes and goes as unseen as the air, and who leaves desolation and pillage behind him. The Sherlock Holmes stories in its Triumph of Realism! Splendid acting, a remarkable story, perfect photography, nationwide publicity featuring Arnold Daly, Pearl White and Sheldon Lewis. What more can you ask? Elaine has them all! Episode One and Episode Two will be shown next Monday. Don't fail to see it!

Arrests Made At Irvine.

Thomas Wallace, Frank Chaney and James N. Hinds were arrested at Irvine last Saturday, charged with the murder of Houston Underwood, which occurred in that city last week. On Friday night a party of men called at the house of Underwood and asked for Green Davidson. Davidson refused to come to the door and the men lingered around the house. Underwood went to the door and opened it and immediately he was riddled with bullets, falling dead instantly.

Green Davidson had sworn out some warrants Friday against Chaney and Hinds, charging them with bootlegging, on which charge they were arrested and given bond. That night a body of men were searching for him and it is supposed that Underwood was killed under the belief that it was Davidson. The three men who have been arrested, it is claimed, were identified by Davidson and Mrs. Underwood, hence their arrest. The defendants proclaim their innocence.

Captain Mullikin, who was in the county at the time with his blood hounds, took his dogs to the place of the murder, but they were not put on the trail for the reason that the ground had been so thoroughly trampled by hundreds of people that it would be useless to start them. Also the three parties who were arrested were suspected and charged by Davidson and Mrs. Underwood with the crime which led to their arrest. The trial of the accused has been set for Tuesday, February 23.

English Killed.

A wire announces that John English, formerly of this place, was shot and killed in Zone, Washington. No particulars attainable. He was a brother of George English.

Lost.

On Irvine pike between Moberly and Richmond, Sunday Feb. 7, Ladies blue sewing bag containing aligator purse with change, glasses in Dr. Smoot case, etc., please leave at Moberly store or at Climax office. 7-1t

Child Lost.

Sunday evening the twenty months old child of Mrs. Spillman, of Paint Lick, who was visiting her mother, Mrs. Pullens, of this city, strayed away from home and was lost for some hours. The mother was almost frantic with grief, and a commotion was created in that part of the city. The baby was located by the police at Rev. O. J. Young's, who had telephoned to Central that the child was at his home.

Were you among the crowds at J. R. Gibson & Co.'s Closing Out Sale? 6-2t

President Wilson will, at a meeting in Washington, February 21, deliver a speech in the interest of Berea College. Mrs. Wilson took a deep interest in this institution and its mountain youth students.

CHURCH NOTES.
Rev. J. M. Cornelison, well known here, was painfully injured in a runaway accident last week, but will be able to hold his revival meeting at Tutuila, Oregon, where he is a missionary to the Indians.
Rev. E. B. Barnes and Mr. R. E. Turley attended a men's banquet of the Bible school at Nicholasville on Tuesday night. Mr. Turley was one of the principal speakers.
The men's meeting Sunday night at the First Christian church was largely attended. Rev. Barnes spoke on "The Character of Isaac." Next Sunday evening the subject will be: "The Man Who Went to Seek a City." The men should be there.
The attendance at the First Christian church Sunday School on Sunday, February 14, was 320; offering $30.76.

.. In Society ..

Dr. and Mrs. E. B. Barnes and Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Broadus, entertained the teachers of the Christian church delightfully on Tuesday evening. A pretty musical programme was given by Mrs. S. J.
McGaughey and Miss Cynthia Davison, which was much enjoyed. Dr. R. L. Tel-mus was the guest of the evening and made a beautiful talk on "The Human and Spiritual Side of Christ." The evening closed with a lovely lunch of sandwiches and orange ices.

Not in many months have the music lovers of Richmond enjoyed a more delightful afternoon of music and song than on Wednesday, when Mrs. R. R. Burnam entertained the Cecilia Club at her home on the Summit. The programme, a brilliant one, was confined to the compositions of Beethoven, and opened with the roll call of the great master's eccentricities.
Those who took part were: Mesdames M.
C. Kellogg, J. R. Johnson, S. J. McGaughey, Harvey Chenuit, Alex. Denny, Harry B.
Hanger, and Miss Emma Watts and Miss Mary D. Pickels. At the conclusion of the musical an elegant lunch was served.
Mrs. Burnam was assisted in entertaining by her daughter, Miss Elizabeth.

The Faculty of the Eastern State Normal
School was most delightfully entertained
Monday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Wren J.
Grinstead at their home on the Summit.
An attractive and interesting program was given, the following members taking part:
Miss Maude Gibson, a paper on "History of Designing;" Prof. Barnard, "Manual Training Then and Now," after which followed a general discussion of "Vocational Training."

The Cotton Ball held at the Capital Hotel in Frankfort last evening was for the benefit of the Equal Rights Association, and it proved to be a brilliant success.
Mrs. Thomas Jefferson Smith acted as chairman of the General Committee.

Monday evening the parlors of the First Christian church were the scene of a merry party, the occasion being a reception given to welcome the new students of the Eastern State Normal School. The rooms were attractively decorated with red hearts and festoons of ribbons, while valentine souvenirs were pinned on the guests as they were served. A large number were present, and music and games were enjoyed till a late hour. A "Valentine Contest" was greatly enjoyed, as were solos by Miss Davidson, Miss Carrie Allman, and a recitation by Miss Elizabeth Gormley.

Mrs. J. H. Dean has as her guests,
Miss Hannah Dean and Miss Mary Lewis, of Owensboro, and on Friday afternoon she entertained the first meeting of the Young Ladies' Bridge Club in their home. Besides the regular members there were present, Mrs. D. L. Cobb and Miss Helen Bennett, the latter winning the trophy, a silver vanity box, for Mrs. Dean.

Mrs. Dan Chenuit was hostess of the Married Ladies' Bridge Club on Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Following the games a pretty lunch was served, and the prize was awarded Miss Mollie Fife, who played for the hostess.

In the parlors of the Baptist church on last Monday evening a pretty reception was tendered the Normal students and young people of the church. About two hundred and fifty guests were present and a very delightful evening was spent. Mesdames Hugh Bates, J. W. Smith, Jonah Wagers,
E. M. Huguley and Mr. Stott did the honors, and were assisted in serving refreshments by some of the younger members of the church.

Quite a lovely Valentine Party was given by the Junior Bible Class of the Presbyterian church to Dr. Telford's children, Friday evening, in the Lecture Room of the church. A postoffice had been planned, where each one received a dainty valentine.
All of the popular games were enjoyed and the evening closed with a lunch of delicious ices and cakes. Misses Curran
Smith, Kathleen Poyntz, Mrs. Chas. Terrill and Mrs. Mary Arbuckle were the directors of the party.

On Monday afternoon, March 8, there will be given an "Afternoon of Music and Song" at the Woman's Club, under the direction of the Chairman of Music, Mrs. M.
C. Kellogg. This programme was planned last June when the year books were gathered out and has been looked forward to with much pleasure. Not only club members, but all others cordially invited. Under such leadership we can safely promise a brilliant programme. The next meeting of the Club will be on Monday afternoon, February 22, at which time Mrs. J. W. Caperston, Mrs. A. R. Burnam and Miss Helen Bennett will be on duty.

Miss Davison entertained with a pretty Valentine Party on Saturday evening from eight to eleven o'clock. The house was beautifully decorated in crimson hearts and the partners for the dining room were chosen by valentines that matched; here lovely ices and cakes were served. About twenty-five guests enjoyed the evening.

On Monday afternoon at three o'clock,
Miss Josephine Chenuit entertained the Five Hundred Club at her home on Lancaster avenue. The tables were lovely hand-painted affairs and at the end of the games a delightful lunch of chicken salad, sandwiches, peas with mushroom dressing, beaten biscuit and hot coffee were served.

Mrs. J. P. Simmons had the Ladies' Aid Society of Kirkville, meet with her the past week and entertained them most charmingly; music, drawing contests, and many novel forms of entertainment were introduced. The guest of honor was her sister-in-law, Mrs. Mary Shearer who, on this occasion, celebrated her 83d birthday.

The Cecilia Club will meet at the Christian church on the afternoon of the 24th of February, at which time a fine musical programme will be given. The public cordially invited.

WASHINGTON

God wille no man a slave. The man most meek, Who saw him face to face on Horeb's peak, Had slain a tyrant for a bondman's wrong, And met his Lord with sinless soul and strong, But when, years after, overfraught with care, His feet once trod doubt's pathway to despair, For that one treason fapse, the guiding hand That led so far now barred the promised land, God makes no man a slave, no doubler free; Abiding faith alone wins liberty.

No angel led our Chieftain's steps aright; No pilot cloud by day, no flame by night; No plague nor portent spake to foe or friend; No doubt assailed him, faithful to the end.

Weaklings there were, as in the tribes of old, Who craved for fleshpots, worshiped calves of gold, Murmured that right would harder be than wrong, And freedom's narrow road so steep and long; But he who ne'er on Sinai's summit trod, Still walked the highest heights and spake with God; Saw with anointed eyes no promised land, By petty bounde or pettier cycles spanned, Its people curbed and broken to the ring, Packed with a caste and saddled with a king— But freedom's heritage and training school, Where men unrul'd should learn to wisely rule, 'Till sun and moon should see at Ajalon King's heads in dust and freemen's feet thereon.

His work well done, the leader stepped aside, Spurning a crown with more than kindly pride, Content to wear the higher crown of worth, While time endures, First Citizen of earth.

—James Jeffrey Roche.

WORDS THAT BURN

Washington's Address to Troops at Long Island a Marvel of Eloquence.

From an address delivered before the battle of Long Island, 1776.

THE time is now near at hand which must probably determine whether Americans are to be freemen or slaves; whether they are to have any country they can call their own; whether their houses and farms are to be pillaged and destroyed, and themselves consigned to a state of wretchedness from which no human efforts will deliver them. The fate of unborn millions will now depend, under God, on the courage and conduct of this army. On your conduct and untiring energy leaves us only the choice of a brave resistance, or the most abject submission. We have, therefore, to resolve to conquer or to die.

Our own country's honor, calls upon us for vigor and manly exertion; and if we now shamefully fail, we shall become infamous to the whole world. Let us, then, rely on the goodness of our cause, and the aid of the supreme being, in whose hands victory is, to animate and encourage us to great and noble actions. The eyes of all our countrymen are now upon us; and we shall have their blessings and praises, if happily we are the instruments of saving them from the tyranny meditated against them. Let us, therefore, animate and encourage each other, and show the whole world that a freeman, contending for liberty on his own ground, is superior to any slavish dependency on earth.

Liberty, property, life and honor are all at stake. Upon your courage and conduct rest the hopes of our bleeding and insulted country. Our wives, children and parents expect safety from us only; and they have every reason to believe that heaven will crown with success so just a cause. The enemy will endeavor to intimidate by show and appearance; but remember they have been repulsed on various occasions by a few brave Americans. Their cause is bad—their men are conscious of it; and, if opposed with firmness and coolness on their first onset, with our advantage of works, and knowledge of the ground, the victory is most assuredly ours.

Two pistols which George Washington carried through the Revolution, a medicine chest which belonged to him and "Light Horse Harry" Lee's flag were sold at auction at New York during the past year. There are no Washington pistols in Mount Vernon or in the National museum at Washington.

The genuineness of the offerings was attested by a documentary record of their sale in 1894, in Alexandria, Va., at the disposal of the effects of Washington's secretary, Bartholomew Dandridge, to whom the general presented the weapons. Their presence in 1893 at the partition of the Marsteller estate is attested. Col. Philip G. Marsteller, one of Washington's pallbearers, bought them at the Dandridge sale for $66.25.

The pistols are of the flintlock type. They were made by Hawkins of London and bear the gunmaker's guild proof mark "G. P." Silver hands across the butts are engraved "General George Washington."

The medicine chest is of mahogany and walnut, about one foot square, with brass handles. Lee's flag is about two feet square. It had fallen apart from age, but the pieces were saved and are held in place by thin netting.

Washington the Man.

Washington occupies a unique place, not only in the history of the United States, but in the history of the world. No man of such recent years enjoys such a splendid perspective. America views him, not as a man but as a demigod. He looms vast, a hero with the awesome, inspiring splendor that invests the deities of Greek mythology.

And yet, Washington the man is very real to us.

May his memory be cherished forever.

Kentucky Elks To Take A Trip.

While hundreds are casting their eyes to the "Golden West" during the periods of the Expositions at San Diego and San Francisco, California, the Elks in the State have just about completed their arrangements whereby their members and friends can join in a pilgrimage to replete with all that goes to make a pleasurable trip, that its success is already assured. The Grand Lodge and Reunion of the Order will be held in the beautiful City of Los Angeles this coming July and that is the chief pretext for visiting the "Land of Flowers" at that time. The Committee appointed at the Georgetown Meeting of the Kentucky Elks Association last August has been unremitting in its labors; one of them is now going over every mile of the territory to be covered, perfecting every arrangement that will add to the comfort and diversion of the party. Stops will be made at every point of interest; seven days will be spent at Los Angeles and as many at San Francisco, with a side trip to San Diego. The return will be optional, either through British Columbia and the Canadian Rockies, or via Salt Lake City and the Colorado Rockies, with opportunity to visit Yellowstone Park. We are advised that itineraries of the journey will be soon printed and in the hands of Mr. E. Deatherage, Exalted Ruler, Mr. T. C. O'Neill, Secretary, Richmond Lodge No. 531.

THIS WOMAN WAS VERY UNHAPPY

Physically and Mentally Worn Out—Tells How Nervous and Crying Spells Were Ended by Vinol.

Monmouth, Ill.—"I was weak, worn-out and nervous. I had no appetite and was getting so thin and discouraged, one day I just broke down and cried when a friend came in and asked me what was the matter. I told of my condition and how nothing I took seemed to do me any good. Vinol was suggested. I got a bottle and before it was half gone I could eat and sleep well. I continued its use and now my friends say I look ten years younger, and I am well, healthy and strong. I wish I could induce every tired-out, worn-out, nervous woman to take Vinol."—Mrs. HARRIET GALE, Monmouth, Ill.

There are many over-worked, tired-out, nervous women in this vicinity who need the strengthening, tissue building and vitalizing effects of Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic, and so sure are we that it will build them up and make them happy that we offer to return their money if it fails to benefit.

Vinol is a delicious preparation of the extract of cod liver oil and peptonate of iron and contains no oil.

Effect of Great Kidney Remedy Is Soon Realized.

I feel it my duty to let you know what Swamp-Root did for me. I was bothered with my back for over twenty years and at times I could hardly get out of bed. I read your advertisement and decided to try Swamp-Root. Used five bottles, and it has been five years since I used it, and I have never been bothered a day since I took the last bottle of it. I am thoroughly convinced that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root cured me, and I would recommend it to others suffering as I did.

My husband was troubled with kidney and bladder troubles and he took your Swamp-Root and it cured him. This was about five years ago.

You may publish this letter if you choose.

Very truly yours,
MRS. MATTIE CAMFIELD,
R. F. D. No. 3, Gobleville, Mich.
Subscribed and sworn to before me this 13th day of July, 1909.

ARVIN W. MYERS,
Notary Public
for Van Duren Co., Mich.

Letter to
Dr. Kilmer & Co.,

EXPLOITS OF ELAINE

SYNOPSIS.

The formation of a partnership as professor and aide in crime science between Craig Kennedy, university chemistry professor, and Walter James Bennett, a man, is at once followed by their becoming interested in a series of murders by a master criminal who leaves no other clue to his identity than the alien manual of a "Clutching Hand." Elaine Dodge, whose father is one of the latest victims of the mysterious murderer, witnesses the beginning of Kennedy's scientific investigation of the murder.

SECOND EPISODE

The "Twilight Sleep."

Kennedy had thrown himself wholeheartedly into the solution of the mysterious Dodge case.

Far into the night, after the challenge of the forged finger print, he continued at work, endeavoring to extract a clue from the meager evidence—a bit of cloth and trace of poison already obtained from other cases.

We dropped around at the Dodge house the next morning. Early though it was, we found Elaine a trifle paler, but more lovely than ever, and Perry Bennett, themselves vainly endeavoring to solve the mystery of the Clutching Hand.

They were at Dodge's desk, she in the high chair, he standing beside her looking over some papers.

"There's nothing there," Bennett was saying as we entered.

I could not help feeling that he was gazing down at Elaine a bit more tenderly than mere business warranted.

"Have you—found anything?" queried Elaine anxiously, turning eagerly to Kennedy.

"Nothing—yet," he answered, shaking his head, but conveying a quiet idea of confidence in his tone.

Just then Jennings, the butler, entered, bringing the morning papers. Elaine seized the Star and hastily opened it. On the first page was the story I had telephoned down very late in the hope of catching a last city edition.

"We all bent over and Craig read aloud: "CLUTCHING HAND" STILL AT LARGE

New York's Master Criminal Remains Undetected—Perpetrated New Dark Murder and Robbery on Millionaire Dodge.

He had scarcely finished reading the brief but alarming news story that followed and laid the paper on the desk when a stone came smashing through the window from the street.

Startled, we all jumped to our feet. Craig hurried to the window. Not a soul was in the street.

To it was attached a piece of paper. Quickly he unfolded it and read:

outside at the time might actually have seen a sinister face at that cellar window, but to us upstairs it was invisible. The face was that of the servant, Michael.

Without another word Kennedy passed into the drawing room and took his hat and coat. Both Elaine and Bennett followed.

"I'm afraid I must ask you to excuse me—for the present," Craig apologized.

"You—will not let that letter intimidate you?" she pleaded, laying her soft white hand on his arm. "Oh, Mr. Kennedy," she added, bravely keeping back the tears, "avenge him! All the money in the world would be too little to pay it off!"

At the mere mention of money Kennedy's face seemed to cloud, but only for a moment.

"I'll try," he said simply.

Elaine did not withdraw her hand as she continued to look up at him. "Miss Dodge," he went on, his voice steady, as though he were repressing something, "I will never take another case until the 'Clutching Hand' is captured."

The look of gratitude she gave him would have been a princely reward in itself.

It was some time after these events that Kennedy, reconstructing what had happened, ran across, in a strange way which I need not tire the reader by telling, a Doctor Haynes, head of the Hillside Sanitarium for Women, whose story I shall relate substantially as we received it from his own lips.

It must have been that same night a distinguished visitor drove up in a cab to our Hillside sanitarium, rang the bell and was admitted to my office.

I am, by the way, the superintending physician, and that night I was sitting with Doctor Thompson, my assistant, in the office discussing a rather interesting case, when an attendant came in with a card and handed it to me. It read simply, "Dr. Ludwig Reinstrom, Cohnen."

"Here's that Doctor Reinstrom, Thompson, about whom my friend in Germany wrote the other day," I remarked, nodding to the attendant to admit Doctor Reinstrom.

I might explain that while I was abroad some time ago I made a particular study of the "Daemmerschlag," otherwise, the "twilight sleep"—at Freiburg where it was developed, and at other places in Germany where the subject had attracted great attention. I was much impressed and had imported the treatment to Hillside.

While waiting I read into my desk and drew out the letter to which I referred, which ended, I recall:

"As Doctor Reinstrom is in America, he will probably call on you. I am sure you will be glad to know him."

"Faternally yours,"

EMIL SCHWARZ, M. D.,
"Director, Leipzig Institute of Medicine."

"Most happy to meet you, Doctor Reinstrom," greeted the new arrival, as he entered our office.

For several minutes we sat and chatted of things medical here and abroad.

"What is it, doctor," I asked finally, "that interests you most in America?"

"Oh," he replied quickly with an expressive gesture, "it is the broadmindedness with which you adopt the best from all over the world, regardless of prejudice. For instance, I am very much interested in the new 'twilight sleep.' Of course, you have borrowed it largely from us, but it interests me to see whether you have modified it with practice. In fact, I have come to Hillside sanitarium particularly to see it used. Perhaps we may learn something from you."

It was most gracious, and both Doctor Thompson and myself were charmed by our visitor. I reached over and touched a call button and our head nurse entered from a rear room.

"Are there any operations going on now?" I asked.

She looked mechanically at her watch. "Yes, there are two cases, now, I think," she answered.

"Would you like to follow our technique?" I asked, turning to Doctor Reinstrom.

"I should be delighted," he acquiesced.

A moment later we passed down the corridor of the sanitarium, still chatting. At the door of a ward I spoke to the attendant, who indicated that a patient was about to be anesthetized, and Doctor Reinstrom and I entered the room.

There, in perfect quiet, which is an essential part of the treatment, were several woman patients lying in bed in the ward. Before us two nurses and a doctor were in attendance on one.

I spoke to the doctor, Doctor Holmes, by the way, who bowed politely to the distinguished Doctor Reinstrom, then turned quickly to his work.

"Miss Sears," he asked of one of the nurses, "will you bring me that hypodermic needle?"

"You will see, Doctor Reinstrom," I injected in a low tone, "that we follow in the main your Freiburg treatment. We use scopolamine and uskopohin."

I held up the bottle, as I said it, a rather peculiar shaped bottle, too.

"And the pain?" he asked.

"Practically the same as in your ex-the patient unconscious, but prevent her from remembering anything that goes on."

Doctor Holmes, the attending physician, was just starting the treatment. Pulling his hypodermic, he selected a spot on the patient's arm where it had been scrubbed and sterilized, and injected the narcotic.

"And you say they have no recollection of anything that happens?" asked Reinstrom.

"Absolutely none—if the treatment is given properly," I replied, confidently.

"Wonderful!" ejaculated Reinstrom as we left the room.

Now comes the strange part of my story. After Reinstrom had gone, Doctor Holmes, the attending physician of the woman whom he had seen anesthetized, missed his syringe and the bottle of scopolamine.

Holmes, Miss Sears and Miss Stern all hunted, but it could not be found. Others had to be procured.

I thought little of it at the time, but since then it has occurred to me that it might interest you, Professor Kennedy, and I give it to you for what it may be worth.

It was early the next morning that I awoke to find Kennedy already up and gone from our apartment. I knew he must be at the laboratory, and, gathering the mail, which the postman had just slipped through the letter slot, I went over to the university to see him.

As I looked over the letters to call out my own one in a woman's handwriting on attractive note paper addressed to him caught my eye.

As I came up the path to the chemistry building I saw through the window that, in spite of his getting there early, he was finding it difficult to keep his mind on his work. It was the first time I had ever known anything to interfere with science in his life.

"Well," I exclaimed as I entered, "you're the early bird. Did you have any breakfast?"

I tossed down the letters. He did not reply. So I became absorbed in the morning paper. Still, I did not neglect to watch him covertly out of the corner of my eye. Quickly he ran over the letters, instead of taking them, one by one, in his usual methodical way. I quite complimented my superior acumen. He selected the last paper.

A moment Craig looked at it in anticipation, then tore it open eagerly. I was still watching his face over the top of the paper and was surprised to see that it showed, first, amazement, as though something had happened, and then, as though something had hurt him.

He read it again—then looked straight ahead, as if in a daze.

Suddenly he jumped up, bringing his tightly clenched fist down with a loud clasp into the palm of his hand.

"Heaven!" he exclaimed, "I—I will!"

He strode hastily to the telephone. Almost angrily he seized the receiver and asked for a number.

"What's the matter, Craig?" I hurried out eagerly.

As he waited for the number, he threw the letter over to me. I took it and read:

"Professor Craig Kennedy,
"The University, The Heights, City."

"Dear Sir:

"I have come to the conclusion that your work is a hindrance rather than an assistance in clearing up my father's death, and I hereby beg to state that your services are no longer required. This is a final decision, and I beg that you will not try to see me again regarding the matter."

"Very truly yours,
"ELAINE DODGE."

If it had been a bomb I could not have been more surprised.

I could not make it out. Kennedy impatiently worked the receiver up and down, repeating the number. "Hello—hello," he repeated.

Yes—hello, is Miss—oh—good morning, Miss Dodge."

He was hurrying along as if to give her a chance to cut him off. "I have just received a letter, Miss Dodge, telling me that you don't want me to continue investigating your father's death, and not to try to see you again about—"

He stopped. I could hear the reply.

"Why—Mr. Kennedy, I have written you no letter."

The look of mingled relief and surprise that crossed Craig's face spoke volumes.

"Miss Dodge," he almost shouted, "this is a new trick of the 'Clutching Hand.' I—I'll be right over."

Craig hung up the receiver and turned from the telephone. Evidently he was thinking deeply. Suddenly his face seemed to light up. He made up his mind to something, and a moment later he opened the cabinet that in- exhaustible storehouse from which he seemed to draw weird and curious instruments that met the ever new problems which his strange profession brought to him.

I watched curiously. He took out a bottle and what looked like a little hypodermic syringe, thrust them into his pocket and, for once, oblivious to my very existence, deliberately walked out of the laboratory.

I did not propose to be thus cavalierly dismissed. I suppose it would have looked ridiculous to a third party, but I followed him as he went, as he had tried to shut the door on his

We arrived at the corner above the Dodge house just in time to see another visitor—Bennett—enter.

"And, Perry," we heard Elaine say, as we were ushered in, "someone has even forged my name—the handwriting and everything—telling Mr. Kennedy to drop the case—and I never knew."

"She stopped as we entered. "That's the limit!" exclaimed Bennett. "Miss Dodge has just been telling me—"

"Yes," interrupted Craig. "Look, Miss Dodge, this is it."

He handed her the letter. She almost seized it, examining it carefully, her large eyes opening wider in wonder.

"This is certainly my writing and my note paper," she murmured, "but I never wrote the letter!"

Craig looked from the letter to her keenly. No one said a word. For a moment Kennedy hesitated, thinking.

"Might I—er—see your room, Miss Dodge?" he asked at length.

"Why, certainly," nodded Elaine, as she led the way upstairs.

It was a dainty little room, breathing the spirit of its mistress. In fact, it seemed a sort of profanity as we all followed in after her. For a moment Kennedy stood still, then he carefully looked about. At the side of the bed, near the head, he stooped over something which he held in the palm of his hand. I went over. Something gleamed in the morning sunshine—some little thin pieces of glass. As he tried deftly to fit the tiny little bits together he seemed absorbed in thought. Quickly he raised it to his nose, as if to smell it.

"Ethyl chloride!" he muttered, wrapping the pieces carefully in a paper and putting them inside his pocket.

An instant later he crossed the room to the window and examined it. "Look!" he exclaimed.

There, plainly, were marks of a jimmy which had been inserted near the lock to pry it open.

"Miss Dodge," he asked, "might I trouble you to let me see your arm?"

Wonderfully she did so, and Kennedy bent almost reverently over her pump arm examining it.

On it was a small dark discoloration, around which was a slight redness and tenderness.

"That," he said slowly, "is the mark of a hypodermic needle."

As he finished examining Elaine's arm he drew the letter from his pocket. Still facing her he said in a low tone, "Miss Dodge—you did write this letter—but under the influence of the new 'twilight sleep.'"

"Why, Craig?" I exclaimed excitedly. "What do you mean?"

"Exactly what I say. With Miss Dodge's permission I shall show you. By a small administration of the drug, which will injure you in no way, Miss Dodge, I think I can bring back the memory of all that occurred on your last night. Will you allow me?"

"Mercy, no!" protested her Aunt Josephine, who had entered the room. "I want the experiment to be tried," Elaine said quietly.

A moment later Kennedy had placed her on a couch in the corner of the room.

"Now, Mrs. Dodge," he said, "please bring me a basin and a towel."

Aunt Josephine, recoiled, brought them. Kennedy dropped an antiseptic tablet into the water and carefully sterilized Elaine's arm just above the spot where the red mark showed. Then he drew the hypodermic from his pocket—carefully sterilized it, also, and filling it with scopolamine from the bottle.

"Just a moment, Miss Dodge," he encouraged, as he jabbed the needle into her arm.

"Please lie back on the couch," he directed. Then turning to us he added, "It takes some time for this to work. Our criminal got over this fact and prevented an outcry by using ethyl chloride first. Let me reconstruct the scene."

As we watched Elaine going under slowly Craig talked.

"That night," he said, "warily, the masked criminal of the 'Clutching Hand,' bent over, his arm crooked, might have been seen down below us in the ally. Up here, Miss Dodge, worn out by the strain of her father's death, let us say, was nervously trying to read, to do anything that would take her mind off the tragedy. Perhaps she fell asleep."

"Just then the 'Clutching Hand' appeared. He came stealthily through that window, which he had opened. A moment he hesitated, seeing Elaine asleep. Then he tiptoed over to the bed, let us say, and for a moment looked at her, sleeping."

A second later he had thrust his hand into her pocket and had taken out a small glass vial with a long thin neck. That was ethyl chloride—a drug which produces a quick anesthesia. But it lasts only a minute or two. That was enough. As he broke the glass neck of the bulb—letting the pieces fall on the floor near the bed—he shoved the thing under Elaine's face, turning his own head away and holding a handkerchief over his own eyes. He took a look back as he goes. Oh! That hand—which he raises at me—THAT HAND!

The poor girl was sitting bolt upright, staring straight at the hall door, as we watched and listened, fascinated.

Kennedy was bending over, soothing her. She gave evidence of coming out from the effect of the drug. I noticed that Bennett had suddenly moved a step in the direction of the door at which she stared.

"By heavens!" he muttered, staring, too. "Look!"

We did look. A letter was slowly being moved a step in the direction of the door at which she stared. That moment I felt a rough tug at my enough to cause the ethyl chloride to spray out and overcome her instantly. He steps away from her a moment and replaces the now empty vial in his pocket.

"Then he took a box from his pocket, opened it. There must have been a syringe and a bottle of scopolamine. Where they came from I do not know, but perhaps from some hospital. I shall have to find that out later. He went to Elaine, quickly jabbing the needle, with no resistance from her now. Slowly he replaced the bottle and the needle in his pocket. He could not have been in any hurry now, for it takes time for the drug to work."

Kennedy paused. Had we known at the time, Michael—he of a sinister face—must have been in the hallway that night, careful that no one saw him. A tap at the door and the "Clutching Hand" must have heckled him. A moment's parley and they separated—"Clutching Hand" going back to Elaine, who was now under the influence of the second drug.

"Our criminal," resumed Kennedy thoughtfully, "may have shaken Elaine. She did not answer. Then he may have partly revived her. She must have been startled. 'Clutching Hand,' perhaps, was half crouching, with a big ugly blue steel revolver leveled full in her face.

"One word and I shoot!" he probably cried. 'Get up!'

"Trembling, she must have done so. 'Your slippers and a kimono,' he would naturally have ordered. She put them on mechanically. Then he must have ordered her to go out of the door and down the stairs. 'Clutching Hand' must have followed, and as he did so he would have cautiously put out the lights."

We were following, spellbound, Kennedy's graphic reconstruction of what must have happened. Evidently he had struck close to the truth. Elaine's eyes were closed. Gently Kennedy led her along. "Now, Miss Dodge," he encouraged, "try—try hard to recollect that night. What that happened last night—everything."

As Kennedy paused after his quick recital, she seemed to tremble all over. Slowly she began to speak. We stood awestruck. Kennedy had been right!

She was now living over again those minutes that had been forgotten—blotted out by the drug.

"And it was all real to her, too—terribly real. She was speaking, plainly in terror.

"See a man—oh, such a figure—with a mask. He held a gun in my face—he threatens me. I put on my kimono and slippers, as he tells me. I am in a daze. I know what I am doing—and I don't know. I go out with him, downstairs, into the library."

Elaine shuddered again at the recollection. "Ugh! The room is dark, the room where he killed my father. Moonlight outside streams in. This masked man and I come in. He switches on the lights."

"Go to the safe," he says, and I do it—the new safe, you know. Do you know the combination?" he asks me. 'Yes,' I reply, too frightened to say no.

"Open it then," he says, waving that awful revolver closer. I do so. Hastily he rummages through it, throwing papers here and there. But he seems not to find what he is after and turns away, swearing furiously.

"Hug it!" he cries at me. 'Where else did your father keep papers?' I point in desperation at the desk. He takes one last look at the safe, shoves all the papers he has strewn on the floor back again and slams the safe shut.

"Now, come on," he says, indicating with the gun that he wants me to follow him away from the safe. At the desk he repeats the search. But he finds nothing. Almost I think he is about to kill me. 'Where else did your father keep papers?' he hisses fiercely, still threatening me with the gun.

"I am too frightened to speak. But at last I am able to say, 'I—I don't know!' Again he threatens me. 'As God is my judge,' I cry, 'I don't know.' It is fearful. Will he shoot me?"

"Thank heaven! At last he believes me. But such a look of fabled fury I have never seen on any human face before."

"Sit down!" he growls, adding, 'at the desk!'

"Take some of your note paper—the best.' I do that, too.

"And a pen," he goes on. My fingers can hardly hold it.

"Now—write!" he says, and as he dictates, I write!

"This!" interjected Kennedy, eagerly holding up the letter that he had received from her.

Elaine looked it over with her drug-laden eyes. "Yes," she nodded, then looked again at the scene itself. "He reads it over, and as he does so says, 'Now, address an envelope. Himself he folds the letter, seals the envelope, stamps it, and drops it into his pocket, hastily straightening the desk.'

"Now, go ahead of me—again. Leave the room—no, by the hall door. We are going back upstairs. I obey him, and at the door he switches off the lights. How I stand it I do not know. I go upstairs mechanically into my own room—I and this masked man."

"Take off the kimono and slippers!" he orders. I do that. 'Get into bed!' he growls. I crawl in fearfully. For a moment he looks at me—comes down, covering me entirely. Over and over we went, smashing a lamp. It was vicious. Another man attacked me, too.

"I've got him—Kennedy!" I heard a voice pant over me.

A scream followed from Aunt Josephine. Suddenly the portieres were pulled off me.

"The deuce!" puffed Kennedy. "It's Jameson."

Bennett had rushed plump into me, coming the other way, hidden by the portieres!

If we had known at the time, our Michael of the sinister face had gained the library and was standing in the center of the room. He had heard me coming and had fled to the drawing room. As we finished our struggle in the library he rose hastily from behind the divan in the other room, where he had dropped, and had quietly and hastily disappeared through another door.

Laughing and breathing hard, they helped me to my feet. It was no joke to me. I was sore in every bone. "Look!"

"Well, where did he go?" insisted Bennett.

I cried.

Bennett and I argued a moment, then started and stopped short. Aunt Josephine had run downstairs and was now shoving the letter into Craig's hands.

We gathered about him curiously. He opened it and read it with that awesome Clutching Hand again.

Kennedy read it. For a moment he stood and studied it, then slowly crushed it in his hand.

Just then Elaine, pale and shaken from the ordeal she had voluntarily gone through, burst in upon us from upstairs. Without a word she advanced to Craig and took the letter from him.

Inside, as on the envelope, was that same signature of the Clutching Hand.

Elaine gazed at it, wild-eyed, then at Craig. Craig smilingly reached for the note, took it, folded it, and unconcernedly thrust it into his pocket. "My God!" she cried, clapping her hands convulsively, and repeating the words of the letter, "YOUR LAST WARNING!"

LOCAL ITEMS.

A disastrous blaze occurred at the home of Mrs. Arnold, on Breck avenue, at 1 o'clock Saturday morning and the fire and water combined did much damage. The night was extremely cold and the firemen did not respond promptly, not bearing the alarm, and several of those who did turn out were severely frost-bitten. The fire is supposed to have originated in the basement. Loss covered by insurance.

Rev. Hopper closed a protracted meeting of three weeks duration at the Southern Presbyterian church last Monday night. The meeting was a very successful one, there being a large addition to the church.

Chas. C. Golden and Miss Lucy White were married Feb. 12th at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. George W. White, Jr.

On the morning of the 12th inst. Mr. T. S. Hazan was married to Miss Rika Porter, who for some months has been making her home with her sister, Mrs. Wm. Shearer, on the Summit. The ceremony was performed at 5:30 o'clock in the morning and the happy couple, after a wedding breakfast, at which only a few relatives were present, took the R. N. I. & B. train for Louisville.

At 10 a. m. Monday, Feb. 11, the dedication services of the new school building took place in the handsome chapel. There were in attendance many of our best citizens. Dr. W. G. White, president of the Board of Education, acted as chairman of the meeting and in a few well chosen remarks explained the object of the gathering and introduced Mayor C. F. Burnam, who delivered an address; next Hon. W. B. Smith, Dr. L. H. Blanton and Judge Breck, all of whom made interesting remarks.

You don't save money when you buy cheap or big-size baking powder. Don't be misled. Buy Calumet. It's more economical—more wholesome—gives best results. Calumet is far superior to your milk and soda.

Blue Grass League To Be Revived.

A dispatch from Winchester says a movement is on foot to revive the old Bluegrass League, which during 1900, 1910, 1911 and 1912 created much enthusiasm among the base ball cranks of Winchester; Lexington, Paris, Maysville, Frankfort and Richmond. A letter received by local promoters, said to have been sent by Federal League magnates, has made overtures looking to the reorganization of the league.—Lexingtonian.

Rheumatism In Joints

Pain Disappears and Swelling Vanishes in a Few Days.

That is what happens if you use Rheuma, the wonderful remedy that B. L. Middleton and all druggists sell on the "money back if not cured" plan. There is a vast amount of rheumatism in this vicinity, and if you know any sufferer, call his attention to this generous offer.

Rheuma is a quick-acting prescription. You will know your rheumatism is leaving 24 hours after you take the first dose. It dissolves the uric acid and drives it from its lodging place.

Mrs. Alice A. Brown, Ithaca, N. Y., writes: "For seven years I suffered greatly with rheumatism in my hip; at night I was scarcely able to sleep. One bottle of Rheuma cured me."

That sounds miraculous, but Rheuma does miraculous things. Fifty cents a bottle of B. L. Middleton, and all druggists.—Adv.

Negro Confesses Murder Of Zelma Young.

A special to the Louisville Times says that a negro giving his name as John Walker was arrested in Logan, W. Va., Monday and according to officials there has confessed to the murder of Zelma Young, the 10-year old white girl at Danville, Kentucky last May. The girl was found lying in bed with her head severed. A big reward was offered. Walker left his hat in the house and this led to his capture after a long chase. His motive was robbery.

Feel Blue—Or Just Stupid?

Sluggish bowels and torpid liver usually go together and it does not take long for constipation to produce a bad condition—a feeling of languor or listlessness—the "blues," headaches, palpitation or other matter. Indeed, when in this condition the system invites more serious illness and is not able to throw off diseases. Foley Cathartic Tablets are a wholesome laxative and cleansing cathartic. They act without inconvenience, griping or sickening. For sale by all dealers everywhere.—Adv.

The Cincinnati stock yards were placed under quarantine on the 5th, following a discovery of the foot and mouth disease from a car-load of cattle shipped from Indianapolis.

More than 600 men have returned to work at the big shops of the Queen & Crescent road at Somerset, when the plant resumed operations, after having been closed down for ten days. Practically every department is now running at full blast.

The body of the little 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Gayer, of Lexington, was found lifeless in an unused cistern. It is believed that the little fellow in playing about the backyard went too near the cistern and fell in.

A mob of 40 men lynched Tom Tinker at Mayfield, Ky. He killed Constable Tart while the officer was attempting to arrest him. No resistance was made by the jailer when the mob came for the negro.

The Central City Deposit Bank of Central City has been placed in the hands of the State Banking Department. It is stated that its capital stock is $10,000 and that the depositors and creditors will be paid in full.

It is stated that a number of women, charged with selling their votes at school elections, are among those caught in the bribery drag-net in Pike county, where nine more men were convicted last Friday of having accepted money for their ballots.

According to plans of New York capitalists, F. Thomas, Ky., will be one of the motion picture centers of the United States within a short while. The promoters expect to build a plant that will cost $1,000,000, and the Hiland Film Co. will be incorporated with a capital of $2,500,000.

A masked highwayman entered the Lima Bank at Lima, N. Y., and held up the cashier and his assistant with two revolvers and demanded all the cash. It is reported that he got $10,000. He made good his escape and the cashiers were unable to give a comprehensive description of him.

At Dry Ridge, Ky., well drillers have found a depth of 1,125 feet water similar to that which flows from the Kentucky Carlsbad Springs. The flow is sufficient to raise 700 feet in the well. A company from Cincinnati and Lexington have secured an option on it and it is reported that a hotel will be erected with a capacity for 1,000 guests.

About $30,000 of the $2,500,000 appropriated by Congress to meet the expense incident to the slaughtering of cattle with the foot and mouth disease has been expended to reimburse in part those in Kentucky whose live stock was thus disposed of as a result of the disease.

John G. Cooper, Congressman-elect from the 9th Ohio district, will attain a distinction on March 4th, this year, that no other man is known to have. He will step directly from an engine cab into a seat in Congress. Mr. Cooper is an engineer on the Erie & Ashland division of the Pennsylvania railroad and will remain in that position until he takes his seat in Congress.

Owing to high water in Red river the big Broadhead-Garrett lumber mill at Clay City was forced to suspend work for a few days. This is the largest mill in Eastern Kentucky, having never been idle since its establishment several years ago. This mill controls all the available timber in that section of the mountains. Sen. R. L. G. Garret, of Winchester, is president of the company.

Casbar Wm. Cross, of the Mohawk German Banking & Savings Co., of Cincinnati, shot and killed one of the two men who attempted to rob his bank. One of the men escaped and it is claimed he secured about $700.

A bill has been introduced in the Legislature of Texas to divide that State into two States, but it is opposed by the liquor interests because it is believed the new State would vote for State-wide prohibition.

Two brothers, John and Henry Morgan, were burned to death in their home two miles east of Torrent, Ky., on last Tuesday night. The building was a log structure and it and the contents were soon consumed. The young men were about 21 and 20 years of age. They were overcome by the smoke and thus perished.
